AGENTS & MANAGERS

Jim Roe, of Roe Entertainment has a new website <http://www.roeentertainment.com/> ^[3] and a new email address: jim@roeentertainment.com ^[4] New acts on his roster include The Tuttles with AJ Lee from California and The Expedition Show from the Nashville area.

ARTISTS & COMPOSERS

Congratulations to Jamie Dailey and Darrin Vincent on their new album, The Gospel Side of Dailey & Vincent, which debuted at #1 on Billboard's Top Bluegrass Album Chart, #3 on the Top Contemporary Christian Chart and #61 on the Top 100 Chart the week ending Jan. 15. The CD is available exclusively at all Cracker Barrel Country Store locations and online at crackerbarrel.com. "We're thrilled and feel absolutely blessed that this album has been greeted so warmly," said Jamie Dailey. "We've always performed gospel music in our shows and fans have asked when we were going to do a gospel album."

"Being a part of Cracker Barrel's exclusive music program means we have the chance to connect in a very personal way with their guests in over 600 Cracker Barrel stores. We love dropping by to eat, meet and greet when we're on the road," added Darrin Vincent.

Congratulations to all the artists currently topping the following bluegrass radio and sales charts:

Interested in an inexpensive, fashionable way to donate to your favorite bluegrass charity? Check out WearYourMusic.org, a Rhode Island-based group that helped musicians donate more than $60,000 to charity in 2011. Bracelets are custom-made from the intertwined guitar strings of well-known musicians with the profits donated to the individual musician's charity of choice. More than 150 artists including Tommy Shaw (who had a bluegrass album out last year), John Mayer, Eric Clapton, Pete Townsend, Gregg Allman, Dolly Parton and Tim McGraw are donating their strings to create bracelets. "We created this company in 2007 when we noticed that musicians were just tossing away their used guitar strings," explains Hannah Garrison, Co-Founder of Wear Your Music. "We wanted to use these guitar strings to make a difference by recycling a piece of rock memorabilia to create bracelets for fans. We took it a step further and decided to donate the proceeds from the sale of the Artist Bracelet to the musician's charity of choice." Wear Your Music has sold over 1000 artist bracelets in 2011, and prices for the The Original Artist Bracelets start at $50. Propelled by a love for music and a desire to give back to the community, Wear Your Music was founded in 2007 by financier Steve Bernstein and jewelry artist Hannah Garrison, the company has raised nearly half a million dollars for more than 100 charities so far.

Catherine Hayden is the new Membership Coordinator at IBMM. Those who join or renew their membership in 2012 will receive an exclusive, historical CD with a selections of interviews and performances by legendary bluegrass artists from IBMM?s Bill Monroe Centennial Celebration Sept. 12-14, 2011. Curator Forrest Roberts reports that IBMM received an Education Merit Award from the Kentucky Historical Society in September. Original pieces of art on display in the Bill Monroe Centennial Art Exhibit may be purchased through the museum?s website at www.bluegrassmuseum.org ^[59]. Sixty per cent of sale prices goes to IBMM. In June 2011 RaShae Jennings, a graduate of Western Kentucky University, joined the museum staff as a full time archivist.

The listening audience for RBI: Radio Bluegrass International has doubled in size during the past year, according to IBMM Marketing Director Danny Clark. Plans are in the works for a new RBI smart phone app and a new server to host multiple streaming options. Tune in to RBI by going to the IBMM website and clicking the RBI logo in the upper left hand corner of the home page. Randy Lanham, Education Director at IBMM, continues to offer bluegrass instrument lessons at elementary schools in Daviess County, as well as coordinate the museum?s Saturday Lessons Program for children and their families interested in learning to play bluegrass music. Lanham and Clark presented assemblies at local schools in honor of the Monroe Centennial by performing songs written by Bill Monroe. They displayed Monroe-influenced paintings on exhibit at the museum and also created a contest for each school to choose a Monroe song and draw a picture to go along with this. The staff at each school picked the winning artwork, and now pictures from 18 young bluegrass fans are on display at IBMM.

IBMM?s eight-year Video Oral History Project has wrapped up the filming part of the project. The culminating documentary film by project director Joe T. Gray, POWERFUL: Bill Monroe Remembered, received a standing ovation at its premiere during the Bill Monroe Centennial Celebration Sept. 13, 2011 held at the museum. The documentary film tells Bill Monroe?s story through the recollections of his band mates over nearly seven decades, the Blue Grass Boys. Future Video Oral History Project work will focus on editing the 268 in-depth interviews with bluegrass music?s founding generation into individual documentaries. These will be available for viewing at the museum and in the near future, at the IBMM website.

Pete Wernick's latest project, the Wernick Method Jam Classes, got off to a strong start in 2011 with 500 students at 38 classes in 20 states. The Wernick Method trains teachers to teach bluegrass jamming to pickers of all skill levels and bluegrass instruments. They learn to follow easy songs, lead songs and play basic instrumental solos, as well as the essentials of how jamming works, the ground rules and etiquette. With only four chords required and tablature/note-reading skills not necessary, the classes are able to involve even the most inexperienced players. "I've been fortunate with the level of teaching and administrative talent I've been able to involve in the first year," says Wernick. "My office manager, Rick Saenz, and his son Chris, run the central office in Kentucky and we now have 25 certified teachers all around the country, and two outside the U.S." Certified Wernick Method instructors include Jim Hurst (Kentucky), Ira Gitlin (Virginia), and Craig Korth (Canada), among others. Wernick hopes to recruit and train another 75 teachers in 2012, to allow the enterprise to become fully self-sustaining and help more people learn to jam. Wernick Method Classes scheduled for 2012 will be held from coast-to-coast and also in Australia. For more info: BluegrassJamming.com [66], or BGjam.com [67].

Registration for PineCone Bluegrass Camps (June 25-29, 2012) opens Feb. 2 at the Page-Walker Arts & History Center in Cary, N.C. for Cary residents and PineCone members. Registration opens up for the general public on Feb. 16. Taught by Charles Pettie, Pattie Hopkins and Lynda Dawson, classes will be offered in intermediate bluegrass guitar, beginner fiddle, intermediate bluegrass mandolin, intermediate bluegrass fiddle and songwriting. The camp will end with a student performance with the Kickin Grass Band on Friday night, June 29, as a part of Cary's Starlight Concert Series. Info: 919-460-4963

RECORD LABELS & PUBLISHERS

The Grascals have signed with Mountain Home Music and are in the studio completing their next bluegrass album. Here's a video ^[68] preview.

Good Home Grown Music and Blue Circle Records are now offering singles for download by radio broadcasters at AirPlay Direct, at this link ^[69].

According to the Associated Press in January, U.S. album sales rose more than 3 % last year for the first gain since 2004, a sign they say that rising digital sales are finally stemming the decade-long decline of compact discs. Digital album sales rose nearly 20% to 103 million, while CDs fell nearly 6 % to 225 million. The rest of the total is made up largely of digital single tracks, where 10 tracks are counted as one album. Digital singles sales rose nearly 9% to 1.27 billion. Sales of older albums rose nearly 9 % to 151 million. The Nielsen tally does not include growing subscriptions to "all you can listen to" music plans, which have been rising thanks in part to the July entry of the Swedish service Spotify to U.S. markets in July 2011.

On February 2 Airshow's David Glasser will be the featured presenter at Boulder Digital Arts' first "Digital Salon" of 2012 on Feb. 2 from 6-8:30 p.m. at BDA Arapahoe Studios in Boulder, Colo. Digital Salons are free and open to the public. In addition to the feature presentation, they offer networking with other creative professionals and beer. Pinecastle Records is pleased to announce they have signed The Karl Shiflett and Big Country Show. Their upcoming album Take Me Back will be released summer 2012. Pinecastle has also signed Irish bluegrass artist and songwriter Niall Toner to their roster. Niall's new album, Onwards and Upwards, is due in the fall of 2012 in conjunction with a U.S. tour.

Rebel Records is pleased to announce the release of a new collection from Chris Jones & the Night Drivers, Lost Souls & Free Spirits: The Rebel Collection Old & New, on February 28. The CD is mostly drawn from three albums Chris recorded for Rebel between 1997 and 2000—No One But You (1997), Follow Your Heart (1998) and Just a Drifter (2000). The project also includes three cuts from his 2009 self-released album, Cloud of Dust, along with three brand new recordings that, like Cloud of Dust, feature his current line-up of the Night Drivers: Ned Luberecki on banjo, Mark Stoffel on mandolin and Jon Weisberger on bass. One of the new cuts, "Final Farewell," was released as an advanced single to bluegrass radio. The song was made available for digital purchase as a special pre-album promotion Jan. 31 via iTunes, Amazon.com and other digital outlets.

Rural Rhythm Records is proud to announce a new single release, "Close the Door Lightly When You Go" by the Lonesome River Band from their upcoming album, CHRONOLOGY, Volume One set for release February 28, 2012. The song is now available to radio via AirplayDirect.com and on Rural Rhythm's Fresh Cuts & Key Tracks radio CD. To commemorate LRB's 30 year milestone, a special anniversary retrospective titled CHRONOLOGY will feature the band on 24 songs, to be released in a series of three 8-song EPs—one for each decade of the group's existence. The material will lean heavily on updated versions of many of the LRB's most popular songs during each decade, reprised by the current group.

Rural Rhythm also announces a new single, "My Baby Thinks He's a Train," by Bill Emerson & Sweet Dixie. The song appears on the group's new album, The Touch of Time, released Jan. 31, 2012.
